

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:08 PM

an Hybrid form, definitely! the advantages of online are huge (we have ppl from all over the world, for instance!), but coming together is such a different dynamic.

From Robbie Felix Penman to Everyone: 05:09 PM

Has anyone calculated the CO2 emissions saved by having this conference online...?

From Michael to Everyone: 05:09 PM

+1 Robbie. We also have to adapt. We may want to meet locally after a symposium, instead.

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:10 PM

Sort of Live Local Breakout rooms, Michael :)

From Michael to Everyone: 05:10 PM

We could organise gatherings later this year using the Chatboard.

From Jo Barker to Everyone: 05:11 PM

Not had enough solar power to quite finish today. Nice problem to have. Will disappear soon. Been amazing week.

From Michael to Everyone: 05:11 PM

@Paul Good idea!

From Razak Aziz SEEDS M'sia to Everyone: 05:11 PM

What do you think if we Malaysians do one (online or otherwise) in the next 3 months, a regional one so to speak. ?

From yannb to Everyone: 05:11 PM

Yes, why not having hybrid with local/national gatherings and online for international :)

From Han Kop to Everyone: 05:12 PM

Yes I would like per country! Many French people but no one from the south it seems

From chris mallorie to Everyone: 05:12 PM

I'm interested in linking by climate- warm mediterranean currently

From daverichards to Everyone: 05:12 PM

How can we make groups that have been suggested, eg education, actually happen.

From yannb to Everyone: 05:13 PM

Where are you exactly Han ?

From Han Kop to Everyone: 05:14 PM

@Yann near Lodeve 1 hr from Montpellier

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 05:14 PM

@Dave: hopefully also here online meetings might help! I would look forward to that!

From Rose - Dynamic Events to Everyone: 05:15 PM

I believe the website Slack has been suggested by a few to communicate about various topics and groups

From Jo Barker to Everyone: 05:15 PM

I have appreciated the English language being shared language and the extra effort it must have taken.

From Jo Homan to Everyone: 05:16 PM

working groups! Can we do a poll here?

From Jo Barker to Everyone: 05:16 PM

If anyone has the time It would be amazing to have all the collective evidence organised in a way we can use it to help advocate.

From daverichards to Everyone: 05:16 PM

Rose: please publicise if website Slack is set up. Thanks

From Han Kop to Everyone: 05:16 PM

permies.com has the best forum I think

Before Facebook was okay but it has many limitations and bad moderator etc

From Robbie Felix Penman to Everyone: 05:16 PM

Please come visit our project in Martindale, Cumbria! I will compensate the inspiration you bring me with delicious cooking and a beautiful place to stay! robbiepenman@icloud.com

From yannb to Everyone: 05:17 PM

@Han, maybe speak with Francois Warlop from the GRAB, he knows about the project around Avignon which is close from Montpellier.

From Jo Homan to Everyone: 05:18 PM

Groupings by geography or topic is interesting. What is the simplest?

From daverichards to Everyone: 05:18 PM

Rose: would you be able to send details of Slack board to all attendees?

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:18 PM

Slack sounds promising, but I have no experience with it. Anyone with experience interested in setting up something?

From Jouke to Everyone: 05:19 PM

Second that Adolfo. Cool to see all the different variations on the spectrum forest garden-agroforestry

From Rose - Dynamic Events to Everyone: 05:19 PM

Dave, there is not a board set up. I can't recall who mentioned it, but if they set one up and post on the Chat Board, that is accessible for up to four weeks from the event.

From Jo Homan to Everyone: 05:21 PM

@han permies.com looks good. Is it international or US based?

From chris mallorie to Everyone: 05:22 PM

I'd be willing to work with someone to curate/moderate a slack or other type of account on a trial basis to get it off the ground. The basic plan is free so good enough for now. The other option Sophie mentioned was Zulip but I didn't check that out yet in a collaboration process for our community fortes garden in Berlin we had an explosion in creativity and collaboration using MIRO as an online whiteboard but thats rather for collaborating on topics together online not for meeting... <https://miro.com/>

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 05:23 PM

From Han Kop to Everyone: 05:25 PM

@Jo well it's international but started and mostly populated by Americans (started by Paul Wheaton)

I'm a Slack user but I think it's more suited to small teams to work together on projects, you can make different chat rooms but I think some forum like thing is better, such as the classical php boards

From yannb to Everyone: 05:26 PM

Would be also nice to maps the person intersted and the food forests internationally in order to facilitate meeting

Anybody already started to do that ?

From Cherry to Everyone: 05:27 PM

loved the perennial cookbook talk by Malte Rod! Also hugely inspired by Sigi Tatschl and will be following up on learning from Philippe Etienne - 'The Human Factor'

From yannb to Everyone: 05:27 PM

Or have a nice and easy tool to use fot it ?

*for

From daverichards to Everyone: 05:27 PM

Jennifer: I've seen Miro & it looks great for online brainstorming - does it also enable messaging & discussion?

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 05:29 PM

we always used live online together with zoom and it worked very well either with one sharing its screen or all of them by themselves ...

@ Dave:we always used live online together with zoom and it worked very well either with one sharing its screen or all of them by themselves ...

From James Reid/Tap o' noth Farm to Everyone: 05:29 PM

It was the twenties

From Jo Homan to Everyone: 05:34 PM

I've just looked at Miro made this

<https://miro.com/welcomeonboard/dFp1ZTBwUURuUTBvdIlg4VGIXTEIZcFJyTmZyUFpCa3IHMDZUTWxxeVFNBGpaalozNnZKcFNmaTVseFBONkRmcHwzMDc0NDU3MzU5NzQwMDAwMzAx> as an idea. it looks like you can add comments

i thought you said 'prick' last time. Is this the less rude version??

From Jouke to Everyone: 05:34 PM

lol

From Pablo Van Neste to Everyone: 05:34 PM

Jo went there :p I heard it too ! hahaha

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:35 PM

the ear hears what it wants to hear ;)

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 05:35 PM

Great Jo!! Thanks for Miro board the initiative!

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 05:41 PM

I agree Yann! We need the numbers and the quantitative data as well!

From Han Kop to Everyone: 05:42 PM

This reminds me to ask Martin to please write a book on setting up a nursery and greenhouse etc. I've seen the 20 min video on propagating but that's rather limited and it's rather hard to get information from the professional side if you're an amateur and not in those circles etc.

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:42 PM

+1 Han

From Jo Homan to Everyone: 05:43 PM

Loved your talk Steve!

From Jouke to Everyone: 05:44 PM

I'm starting a nursery right now. Happy to share what I know. Feel free to Contact me

From Wouter van Eck to Everyone: 05:44 PM

Yes Yann, although numbers may differ through the years it indeed is helpful in our talks with interested famers to have data and calculations.

From Kamil Fišer to Everyone: 05:46 PM

Hi Jouke, where are you from?

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:47 PM

Miro looks interesting Jo! Maybe post that link on the chat board on the event platform?

From yannb to Everyone: 05:47 PM

@Wouter, any production system in open field has different yields and economic benefits across the yield ;)

From Jouke to Everyone: 05:47 PM

Sweden. But nursery practices translate well over climates

From yannb to Everyone: 05:48 PM

*across the years

From cas to Everyone: 05:49 PM

Nursery tips would be very helpful Jouke

From Leloup Maxime to Me: (Direct Message) 05:49 PM

Maybe rather the fault of how academic science industry functions today. Very impact factor skewed

From Razak Aziz SEEDS M'sia to Everyone: 05:49 PM

On the nursery idea, we just have started a few social enterprise based experimental initiatives to empower a few of our aborigines communities start small nurseries with local indigenous food / fruit trees. After all they are truly our forest custodians. Hope to share more of this in a few months

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:49 PM

Great Jouke, will get in touch with you via the platform later on. Thanks!

From daverichards to Everyone: 05:50 PM

Rose: does data protection allow you to share contact details. If we use chat to canvas opinion for next 30 days.

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:50 PM

That's great Razak!

From malte to Everyone: 05:50 PM

Second that, Han. We need better resources on the most effective ways of propagation. Sharing the nursery tricks.

From Paul van de Sande to Everyone: 05:52 PM

Gotta go, thanks everyone. Till next time!

From malte to Everyone: 05:53 PM

I really like the essence I hear in Steven's point here. It's about every grower trying to produce data and critically evaluating that to grow as best as possible.

From chris mallorie to Everyone: 05:53 PM

Codyslab is a youtube empiricist too

From Michael to Everyone: 05:53 PM

Have to leave now, see you later on the chat board!

From Razak Aziz SEEDS M'sia to Everyone: 05:54 PM

Thanks Paul, now awaiting masting of dipterocarp seeds in July.

From yannb to Everyone: 06:07 PM

Totally agree, success stories need to be shared and spread to inspire and convince people !

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 06:07 PM

@Steve: there could also be different types of success factors....for example how many people are you able to inspire to start observing natural process or eat more healthy and diverse..or something like that

From Leloup Maxime to Everyone: 06:08 PM

I have to leave. Thanks a lot for this event. Missed a lot of it this week so will get back to it again with recordings. Lets rock forest garden science, practice and agricultural development. All the best, lignously, Maxime :)

From thomasregnault to Everyone: 06:09 PM

« lignously » ahah

From Han Kop to Everyone: 06:09 PM

I'm wondering how people see the relationship of agroforestry to permaculture, which is where I'm coming from and what seems to be a bit of a broader system where they also talk about house and settlement design and so on

From Wouter van Eck to Everyone: 06:11 PM

<https://www.ecologyandsociety.org/vol26/iss2/art6/>

From Fergus to Everyone: 06:11 PM

Have to leave now, but once again a big thank you. It has been amazing.

From Wouter van Eck to Everyone: 06:12 PM

The research on biodiversity in Canada's neglected native food forest in link above.

From Pablo Van Neste to Everyone: 06:13 PM

Thanks Wouter!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Great bedtime read ;)

although I must say the title: Historical Indigenous Land-Use Explains Plant Functional Trait Diversity is very cryptic at first glance. Would not have linked this to food forests

From Manny to Everyone: 06:15 PM

There is a great documentary about some of the Native American food/forest management - well, they at least mention some techniques and influences; called: Wild Canada it's more than just the forest, also animal management and manipulating the environment for optimal hunting/fishing.

From Pablo Van Neste to Everyone: 06:15 PM

I must be going now, my food forest batteries are fully charged for the next year! Thank you and let's all keep in touch!

From dlis to Everyone: 06:16 PM

<https://www.nationalgeographic.com/environment/article/forest-gardens-show-how-native-land-stewardship-can-outdo-nature>

From Robbie Felix Penman to Everyone: 06:21 PM

@Gaye you might be interested in the Lowther Estate's work

From Sophie R to Everyone: 06:22 PM

what about a forest garden workspace on zulip? you can organise by themes and subthemes. Really recommend much more organised than WhatsApp, which becomes hard to find anything in the thread very soon

From Wouter van Eck to Everyone: 06:29 PM

I have to leave this very nice chestnut bar. It has been a great pleasure joining this session - and the symposium as a whole. A big thank you! Best wishes and see you next time!

From yannb to Everyone: 06:33 PM

I also have to leave. Thank you very much everyone. It was very interesting and inspiring. And I hope that we create a lot of food forests together in the next year to tackle the challenges we are facing ! Cheers !

From Jérémy Pasquier to Everyone: 06:34 PM

A + ;)

From Manny to Everyone: 06:34 PM

Alright, also dinner time here. Biggest highlight for me was meeting all of you during these evening calls. I've only gotten into the whole topic a few weeks ago, learned about the Symposium a few days before it started, and am extremely happy I jumped in with both feet. You're all amazing, and hope to stay in touch!

From Razak Aziz SEEDS M'sia to Everyone: 06:35 PM

I too have to take leave as is half past 1 am now in Malaysia, it has been very inspiring, thank you all you great people for being you. Will keep it touch, TQ

From chris mallorie to Everyone: 06:44 PM

I'm climbing down from the Chestnut Tree as well. Thanks so much Martin and everyone for a really valuable week

From Jouke to Everyone: 06:46 PM

<https://www.lowtechmagazine.com/2015/12/fruit-walls-urban-farming.html>

Enhance microclimate without greenhouse

From Jérémy Pasquier to Everyone: 06:46 PM

It had been cited actually

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 06:46 PM

for the compost greenhouse search for documents from the New Alchemy Institute...

From Philip Lister to Everyone: 06:46 PM not brave enough to speak but this discussion stirred a lot of thought and i must say goodbye so maybe next time

From Jérémy Pasquier to Everyone: 06:47 PM

Go see "le Bec Hellouin" on youtube

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 06:48 PM

@ Joule: thanks for the low-tech article!! That's what I eat... a greenhouse is also a lot of resources hats what I mean:-)... a greenhouse is also a lot of resources

From Jérémy Pasquier to Everyone: 06:49 PM

Sadly I have to leave :/ have a nice evening you all and again, many thanks for this amazing Symposium. Bye :)

From Han Kop to Everyone: 06:49 PM

<https://www.actes-sud.fr/catalogue/vivre-avec-la-terre-methode-de-la-ferme-du-bec-hellouin>

From rowan to Everyone: 06:49 PM

@Andreas - yes - avocados for temperate places!

From Jouke to Everyone: 06:51 PM

Have experience with breeding, Rowan?

From rowan to Everyone: 06:55 PM

I also used to be a member of the Northern Nut Growers Association but haven't checked them out recently. <https://nutgrowing.org/>

@Jouke No, I haven't done breeding work, but I might try in future!

From Me to Everyone: 06:55 PM

<https://crfg.org/>

From malte to Everyone: 06:56 PM

Speaking of fruit breeding networks, I'll just mention the great francophone Fruitiers:
<https://www.fruitiers.net/> (there are some options for other languages)

From Andreas Maier to Everyone: 06:56 PM

Thanks!

From rowan to Everyone: 06:57 PM

@Jouke I assume this is it? <https://www.internationaloaksociety.org/>

From Sophie R to Everyone: 06:57 PM

there is an option to save the chat

From rowan to Everyone: 06:58 PM

Thanks Sophie!

From Jouke to Everyone: 06:58 PM

@ Rowan Correct!

From Sophie R to Everyone: 06:59 PM

Saving chat manually

When in meeting, click on Chat . At the bottom of the chat window, click ..., then Save Chat. This will save your chat to your local recording location. The default is your Documents folder / Zoom / Folder with meeting name, date, and time.

From Robbie Felix Penman to Everyone: 07:00 PM

This has been great, thank you so much Martin (and everyone else), I hope we get to meet in person AND in a forest garden at some point

From Jouke to Everyone: 07:00 PM

Thanks for the whole week martin!

From thomasregnault to Everyone: 07:00 PM

Thanks very much Martin!

From Nikoleta Kalakona to Me: (Direct Message) 07:00 PM

Thank you so much for all Martin!

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 07:00 PM

Indeed this has been really wonderful... I will miss this!

From rowan to Everyone: 07:01 PM

Thanks everybody!

From malte to Everyone: 07:04 PM

Thanks everyone, keep in touch in different places! I see people are taking initiative for different ways to continue the conversations. The problem is not having no platforms, but people using them. So let's do that, especially the next few weeks. Otherwise they quickly die (speaking from experience!)

From Jouke to Everyone: 07:05 PM

Gonna put the kid to bed now. Be in touch!

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 07:06 PM

Jo already setup a Miro board https://miro.com/app/board/o9J_Iay4jmQ=/

From Philippe to Everyone: 07:07 PM

Good bye everybody, hope to meet at some stage...

From Jennifer Schulz to Everyone: 07:08 PM

Good bye everybody - it was lovely to meet you all- hope to meet you in person some time!!! All the best and keep planting!!

From thomasregnault to Everyone: 07:10 PM

I'm going as well, thank you everybody and let's talk again soon!

From yves-olivier Evin to Everyone: 07:11 PM

Bye everyone I hope to meet you in real life, in worlds forest gardens, See you!

From Justin Eikellegimaa to Everyone: 07:11 PM

Thanks Martin. See everybody on whatever platform gets agreed upon. Would like to share info and experiences as we are only about 5 people deep into this topic that we know of in Estonia and Latvia.

Tsau

Platforms

Slack

Miro

Zulip

Discourse

Facebook