GS: Thanks Rob - realistic positivity

KH: who is the artist?

KH: thanks!

YP: Rob Hopkins is a very good speaker

SG: Everything was good - so much diversity of topics, locations - quite amazing - thank you so much to Martin and everyone involved in organizing it and presenting at it - so much hard work.

SG: Love this version of Leeds

SG: What a wonderfully positive, optimistic, visionary end to the week.

Pv: The final presentation...(apart from the closing words of course). Enjoy all! :)

Pv: So true this...

Pv: sound is fine here

Pv: Very inspiring Rob! Thank you for this!

JF: Thank you Rob so inspiartional.

JS: all wonderfull and encouraging observations a thoughts Rob! Thanks!

JS: You expressed that so nicely Malika - I feel the same - very gretafull for this wonderfull week with all of you! Thanks Martin for bringing all of us together and facilitate all this exchange and inspiration!!!! What if this mutual connectedness flows in JS: @Alp: very nice idea: I am for that!

JS: @Paul: absolutely yes!

PL: that's a really good rhetorical device

PL: thank you Rob!

GN: Sounds fab, healing society using the world's beautiful plants. Thankyou Rob

JH: yay, great stuff!

AS: Oh, yes please!

AS: Thank you Rob. That was an imagination booster! So inspiring.

Pd: the food zones are a representation of how things were from a study by a German scientist whose name I can't remember(see also The Hungry City)

Pd: before the Industrial Revolution

Pd: Thank you, James. Von Thunen!

Pd: Still a great reference

Pd: You too, Malika!

Pd: In Rotterdam we have an innercity patchwork food forest of 2 hectares

Pd: @alp @Jennifer would be great to keep in touch structurally. Great ideas from Rob for imagining together

KB: you moved me to tears...

AJ: This

AJ: All contributions to this symposium really helps to imagine the future where forest gardens and food forest are an integral part. Thanks to Martin to your invitation and hosting, thank you Bob for your vision. This positive energy will accelerate transit

JR: What an epic symposium!

JR: @paul de Graaf - Von Thunen rings

JP: looking forward to it :)

JP: Thank you !!!

BH: Well put Rob, thank you

HK: yes sound is low

HK: now better

aP: sound is quite low and hard to hear

aP: thank you

aP: the sound is down again

aP: What if we met up online at the beginning of every season and discuss how we want to prepare (both within and without) and live the season? Seasons are there for all of us, without borders.

CM: Profound words

CM: Magic

MR: well put

DL: What a lovely note of encouragement to draw our week to a close!

DR: Will this film be available on YouTube?

IH: Rob Hopkins, amazing talk, thanks!!

IH: London returning to the Garden City principles

CM: Let's imagine a world without streaming and shipping

CM: Yes!

JK: i went to leeds university many moons ago and love this image of leeds

JK: absolutely fantastic presentation!

MW: seconded Rob this talk would be important to share

MC: thank you all for a very inspiring week! Looking forward to keep strengthening our mutual connectedness. It is very heartwarming to know we're in this all together.

AA: Wow ! what an exiting future we could create ?! What If...TQTQTQ Rob Hopkins

Vv: James McKay
